Analysis of the standalone and consolidated results for the second quarter and for the first semester of the year 2023

Macroeconomic and financial markets evolution in the second quarter of 2023

The second quarter of 2023 was marked further by persistently high inflation both globally and locally, despite the downward trend in the inflation rate given the slowdown in the global economy.

At the local level, the latest figures regarding Romania's GDP dynamics showed an economic growth in the first quarter of 2023 of only 2.4%, year-over-year, an evolution below the analysts' expectations and a pronounced deceleration compared to the previous quarter, driven by the unfavorable impact of the changes in inventories.

The unemployment rate increased compared to the previous quarter, reaching the level of 5.8%, though the labor market remaining robust. Inflation continued to remain at an exceptionally high level, at the 10.25% level in June, but significantly lower compared to the previous months. The decrease is mainly due to the economic slowdown, the decrease in international raw materials prices, as well as due to the base effect. Despite the ongoing downward trend in inflation, over the medium term it is expected for it to remain significantly above the target level of the central bank, which will continue to put pressure on monetary policy.

During the two monetary policy meetings from April and May, the Board of Governors of the NBR decided on both occasions to maintain the monetary policy rate at the 7% level. Most likely, we have already witnessed the peak level of interest rates for this economic cycle, which could be encouraging for economic activity, however this will largely depend on how quickly inflation returns to an acceptable level for the monetary policy.

The EUR/RON exchange rate increased in the second quarter, fluctuating on average around 4.95 RON/EUR. In terms of the USD/RON exchange rate, it continued its correction compared to the previous quarter, reaching an average level of 4.54 RON/USD.

Despite the high inflation and restrictive monetary policies globally, equity markets continued their recovery trend in the second quarter amid signs that inflation is on a downward trend and result of financial results published by the companies that came above expectations. Romania's BET index registered an increase of 3.1%, while the BET-TR index which includes dividends increased by 5.9%, outperforming the developed markets from the European Union. In the USA, the S&P 500 index rose by 8.3%, while in the UK, FTSE 100 depreciated by 1.3%. In the Eurozone, the German DAX index registered a positive performance of 3.3%, while the MSCI Emerging Markets index fluctuated only slightly by -0.1%.

Operating revenues BVB standalone* in H1 2023 are in amount of RON 13 mn, decrease of 29% compared to H1 2022 (RON 18.35 mn), due to increased volatility and significant volumes traded in Q1 2022 as a result of the outbreak of the conflict in Ukraine, as well as higher public offers made in S1 2022, while in S1 2023 traded volumes were at a low level in the context of market expectative for the Hidroelectrica IPO.

The decrease was partly offset by the 27% increase of market data revenues, that reached the value of RON 1.94 mn, generated by the growth in the number of real-time data end users, by attracting new data clients, as well as due to the new pricing plan applied starting January 1st 2023, together with the increase in issuers maintaining fees revenues (+9% y/y) as a result of 2022 inflation rate indexation (13.8%), as well as the higher revenues from participant admission fees compared to the previous period

The accounting policies and methods of computation followed in these condensed consolidated financial statements are consistent with those used in the most recent annual financial statements, prepared for the year ended 31 December 2022.

Taxes on income in the interim periods are accrued using the tax rate and calculation methodology that would be applicable to expected total annual profit or loss.

4. Estimates

The preparation of standalone condensed quarterly financial statements requires management to make judgments, estimates and assumptions that affect the application of accounting policies and the reported amounts of assets and liabilities, revenues and expense. Actual results may differ from these estimates.

In preparing these condensed interim financial statements, the significant judgments made by management in applying the company's accounting policies and the key sources of estimation uncertainty were the same as those that applied to the annual standalone financial statements for the year ended 31 December 2022.
