Bucharest, May 29, 2026 – MedLife, the leader of the private medical services market in Romania and the only company with Romanian capital among the top of private medical services operators listed on the stock exchange, presents the financial results for the first quarter of 2026 and announces a positive dynamic despite the economic, social and political context characterized by volatility and investment prudence at regional level.

In the first three months of the year, MedLife Group recorded a pro-forma consolidated turnover of RON 856 million, up 10% compared to the same period last year, an evolution that confirms the resilience of the medical sector and MedLife's ability to adapt quickly to market changes.

The Group achieved growth on most of its business lines. The most important advances in key divisions were recorded by clinics (+14%), corporate (+11.6%) and hospitals (+11.1%). According to MedLife representatives, the corporate division not only had a good start in 2026, but continues to strengthen its market share, amid the development of new solutions adapted to the current needs of employees and the expansion of the customer portfolio. In fact, MedLife has reached the threshold of 1 million medical subscriptions in its portfolio, respectively almost half of the total market. The laboratory division also recorded an increase of more than 10% in Q1 2026 compared to the same period last year.

"The first months of the year confirmed that health remains a priority for Romanians, regardless of the economic, political or social context. At a time when many industries are experiencing slowdowns or even declines, MedLife continues to grow and perform at a sustained pace. The results reflect both the maturity of our business and the strategic investments made in recent years in infrastructure, technology and exceptional medical teams. In this context, we strongly believe that the demand for MedLife services will remain robust", said Mihai Marcu, President and CEO of MedLife Group.

As for the outlook for the rest of the year, the CEO of MedLife is confident: "We are looking at the next period with caution, but also with confidence. We have built a strong yet flexible group to navigate difficult economic contexts and remain relevant in the long term. At the same time, we have secured the necessary resources for possible investments and we remain attentive to the opportunities that may arise in the market. We will continue to strategically analyze each development direction and act according to the context."

Innovation and genetics – strategic development directions of the Group

In addition to consolidating its financial results, MedLife continued in the first quarter of the year to accelerate its innovation projects, reaffirming its position as an innovation-oriented company based on technology and personalized medicine. Among the most important initiatives carried out in Q1 2026 is the conduct of the first genomics study in Romania, a unique research initiative in the region, through which the company contributes to democratizing access to genetic testing and personalized prevention. At the same time, the Group has maintained investments in digitalization and the development of the technological ecosystem, with a focus on MedLife application and expansion of capabilities in the area of genomics and personalized medicine – directions considered strategic for the company's development in the medium and long term.

In parallel, MedLife Group continued the organic development process by opening the first Center Dedicated to Patients with Inflammatory Bowel Diseases, in Târgul Mureș, and at the same time, completed the acquisition of MEDSTAR through the Sfânta Maria network, a transaction that strengthens the Group's presence in the Transylvania region. The company also marked a new investment of over EUR 2 million in one of the most advanced robotic neurosurgery systems in Romania, now available at MedLife Sibiu.

"Although the beginning of the year was marked by uncertainty and geopolitical risks, MedLife maintained its development path, continued to innovate and deliver value for patients, partners and shareholders. The current context forces us to remain balanced and adaptable. That is why we are preparing to operate simultaneously several scenarios and business approaches, adapted according to the evolution of the market in the next period and aligned with our strategic priorities", added Mihail Marcu.

In the coming months, the company remains focused on the operational consolidation of the business and capitalizing on development opportunities, reaffirming its commitment to patients, employees and investors to remain an innovative leader in healthcare, through investments in sustainable development and continuous adaptation to evolving market needs.
